Call for Participation
Doctoral Consortium
at
18th International Conference on Asia-Pacific Digital Libraries and
Asia-Pacific Forum of Information Schools
December 7, 2016
University of Tsukuba, Japan
(ICADL 2016 & APIS 2016 Web site: <http://icadl2016.org/>)

We are pleased to announce a Doctoral Consortium at the 18th International Conference on Asia-Pacific Digital Libraries (ICADL 2016) and Asia-Pacific Forum of Information Schools (APIS 2016). ICADL 2016 and APIS 2016 are organized jointly as International Forum 2016 at the University of Tsukuba, Japan from December 5 to 9, 2016 under the main theme “Knowledge, Information and Data in Open Access Society”. ICADL is one of the major international conferences dedicated to digital library research – JCDL, TPDF and ICADL based in North America, Europe and Asia-Pacific, respectively. APIS is organized as a collaborative event of the Asia-Pacific chapter of iSchools (AP-iSchools) and Consortium of information Schools in Asia-Pacific (CiSAP) to promote exchange and collaboration among information schools in Asia-Pacific.

This Doctoral Consortium is planned to help doctoral students develop their research ideas and broaden their research perspectives. Another important purpose is to encourage students to develop their regional and international networks. Doctoral students doing research related to the conference topics are encouraged to submit their proposals for presentation at Doctoral Consortium.
